A BANANA TREE.

The Fruit Grows Small End Up and is Cut While Unripe.

Contrary to popular belief, bananas do not grow on the tree as they hang in the grocery, but with the small end of the fruit pointing upward to all appearances upside down.

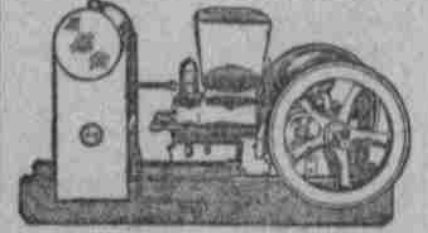

There is probably no other fruit of such universal consumption about which so little is known to the average person as the banana. Scarcely one man in a thousand not connected with the business knows what a banana tree looks like.

The fruit is never allowed to ripen on the tree, but is cut half or three-quarters "full"—that is, half to three-quarters developed, according to the distance it is to be shipped—and comes to maturity by feeding from the stalk, which contains a large amount of sap. Bananas cut in this way attain practically the same size as if allowed to remain on the tree, in which case the bunch becomes too much of a burden for its support and either falls or breaks the tree and ripens on the ground.

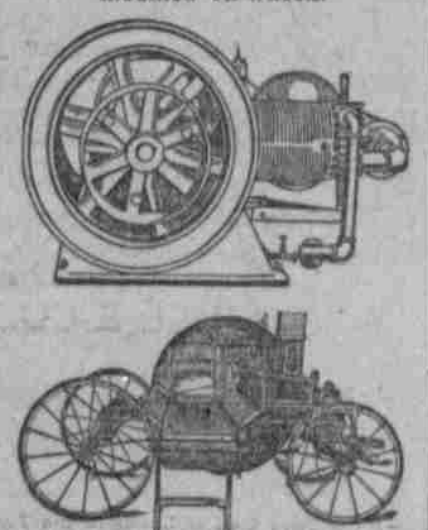

After the cutting the plantation is "cleaned," which merely consists of severing the standing trunks within a few feet of the ground, and a new tree comes forth from the remains of its predecessor, so that the fruit in all stages of growth is to be found at the same time, and the yield is continuous.

About the State

E. L. Eddy, for the past two years principal of Beeman academy at New Haven, has been engaged as principal of the high school at Essex Junction. Mr. Eddy is a graduate of Middlebury college.

The American Woolen Co. is installing machinery in its Winooski river mills, 100 looms having been taken from the company's Burlington mills and placed in the former plant. New looms are now being installed in the Burlington mills to replace those which have been removed.

The Bellows Falls board of trade is making efforts to secure a new industry, the Inter-Ocean Shirt Co., of Lincoln, Neb., which it is said, will locate in the East this fall. The company now employs 125 women and girls, and if it comes to Bellows Falls promises to start with about that number. The factory at Bellows Falls would be the only one; not a branch.

A freak in the squirrel life was found recently by Orin Hill of Middlesex. It was the size of a common red squirrel but of a different hue. There was a stripe of white down the back and on both sides, with stripes of red between. The tail was all white but the tip, which was red. The squirrel is on exhibition in the drug store of Mr. McGrath in Montpelier.

FREAKS OF A GENIUS.

The Man Who Smashed Glasses in a London Tavern.

One day a bulky, tall, pale faced gentleman with bushy, restless eyebrows entered a London tavern. The waiter did not ask him for his order, but immediately brought him a plate of bread and cheese and a glass of ale. Having consumed his lunch, the guest sat upright in his chair for awhile, leaning his hands on a heavy walking case and staring blankly at the opposite wall as if in a dream. Of a sudden he gave a start. He seized the empty glass and dashed it to the floor with all his might, smashing it to atoms. He then reflected for a moment, laid a coin on the table, got up and left the inn without a word to any one. After his departure another guest had the curiosity to ask the waiter whether the gentleman who had just gone out was not wrong in his head. Quoth the waiter:

"Oh, no, sir! That's not a thought unusual with 'im, sir. 'E's broke maybe a 'undred glasses since 'e's been a-comin' to this 'ouse. 'E don't seem to know it when 'e does it. 'E just gets a-thinkin' and seems to get hungry at something 'e's thinkin' about. It's the great Lord Macaulay, sir."—St. James' Gazette.

The Name Cuba.
Cuba is the name by which the island was originally known to the Lucayan Indians, who were with Columbus when he discovered it. One of the villages or cities was called by them Cubanacan, and it is reported that still supposing himself to be on the coast of Asia, imagined that the Tartar sovereign celebrated by Marco Polo. The survival of the original name for Cuba is a remarkable instance of persistence, as the island has been baptized and rebaptized many times since its European discovery. Columbus first called it Juana in honor of Prince John, the son of Ferdinand and Isabella. After Ferdinand's death it was called in his memory Ferdinandina. Subsequently this name was changed to Santiago, after St. James, the patron saint of Spain. Still later it was named Ave Maria, in honor of the Virgin Mary. But none of these names held, and the Indian name is still preserved.

An Office Business Only.
A young man called at the office of a justice of the peace and with some hesitation made known his business, which was to be married. The justice replied that he thought he could perform the service and asked if the young man had his license.

"Yes, sir," the youth replied.
"Well, where is the young lady?"
"She—she's at her father's."
"Well, bring her here."
"She'd rather be married at home, sir."

"And you expect me to go there and marry you?"
"Yes, sir, if you please."
"Young man," said the justice, "this office of mine is like a department store. We sell matches here, but we don't deliver them at the house."—Youth's Companion.

RICH IN ANCESTORS.

St. Johnsbury Young People Have Six Great-grandparents.

St. Johnsbury, July 11.—There are living in St. Johnsbury three little boys who may not be remarkably wealthy in any other way, but who are to be ranked among the "very rich" in the matter of grandparents, having not only the four whom small children often have, but six great-grandparents also.

The boys are Carl Edwin Spencer, born May 28, 1904, Herman Spaulding Spencer, born July 13, 1907, and Glenn Arthur Spencer, born October 24, 1909, the sons of Clyde and Susie (Spaulding) Spencer. As all the grandparents live within 20 miles, there may be danger of the boys being spoiled, but as they are sturdy, healthy little boys there seems little danger.

The grandparents are Herbert C. Spaulding, born October 23, 1861, and Carrie (Holmes) Spaulding, born November 16, 1861; Gardner M. Spencer, born August 15, 1862, and Mary (Willis) Spencer, born February 7, 1863; Mr. Spaulding's father, Reuben Spaulding, was born September 30, 1834, on the farm just below the one where he now lives. The Spaulding family were original settlers of that part of St. Johnsbury known as the "Spaulding neighborhood," and Mr. Spaulding is very proud that his entire life has been spent on his farm on the land which his grandfather cleared and on which he built the first log house in that section.

Mrs. Spaulding's father, George Holmes, was born in Monroe, N. H., December 18, 1835, and although a carpenter and joiner by trade has followed other occupations. His wife, Mary Howard Holmes, is a New Hampshire woman, and was born July 14, 1844. All these grandparents live in St. Johnsbury, the rest are residents of Washington county.

Great-grandmother Spencer, now a resident of Barre, was christened Euditha Charles and was born in Plainfield August 4, 1840, of the Gale family, which has for many years been prominent in that section. The Willis grandparents now live in Plainfield.

Silas E. Willis was born in Enosburg August 10, 1830, and as a young man worked in the copper mines at Corinth. Later he followed the work of a sawyer in mills. Mrs. Willis, who was Diana Foster, was born in Plainfield April 7, 1842.

The great grandparents are all hale and hearty, and it is not at all probable that some of them may add another great to their honorary title of great-grandparent.
